- Develop the II Seminar organized by the educational authorities of Valle d'Aosta.

4. Commitments:

Members are informed that the book of case studies (didactic guide) is in the final stages of publication and will be available to all members at the Alicante meeting. An agreement is reached on how many copies each partner can distribute in order to guarantee the widest dissemination possible.

Dates for the Malmö exchange and the Alicante meetings are set.

5. Seminar:

Seventy-eight health care professionals, educators and social workers attended the seminar.

All participants received a diploma from the Provincial Government of Alicante attesting to the training they had received.

- Conclusions offered by the Italian Partners

In her closing remarks, Ana María Traversa highlighted the importance that this project has had for this region. She stated that the fact that services are dispersed in small towns which are often isolated due to the snow, makes it difficult to carry out joint projects.

She expressed her gratitude for being able to participate in the Hippocrates Project because it brought together professionals from all over the valley to discuss the common problems that they shared as regards adolescents and provided them with information from other European Union countries.

- Leisure Time

Once the seminar was concluded, we visited a residential secondary school as explained in the material provided by Ana María Traversa. Dinner was prepared and served by the cafeteria staff of the boarding school.

The project partners in attendance in Aosta wish to emphasize the exquisite quality of the meals that are offered to the students and the prestige that the school chefs enjoy throughout the valley. As a matter of fact, other organizations often ask to hold their meetings at this venue for this reason. The staff prepared a menu they called "The Hippokrates Menu" which was proof of their excellent culinary skills.

- Evaluation

All proposed activities were carried out punctually and in keeping with the annexed program.

At the end of the Seminar, the evaluation sheets which had been designed by the program's outside evaluator were distributed to the participants.
